A LESSON LEARNED

A young evangelist had just begun his first full-time job. He was unsettled one morning when he heard a church board member boasting how he used a radar detector to avoid getting ticketed for speeding. A moment later he was pleased to hear another member tell the man, "It's the man upstairs that you need to worry about."

The young evangelist was about to offer his appreciation for the second man's honesty when he added, "That guy in the helicopter will get you every time!"
